Deaths of a Day

Mahlon S. Miller
Mahlon S. Miller, for many years an engineer on the Jersey Central Railroad, died of paralysis yesterday in the Masonic Home, Broad and Ontario streets. Mr. Miller was seventy-six years old, was stricken a year ago and had been at the home three months. He was born in Lehigh, where the funeral will be held tomorrow. Mr. Miller was a member of Tamaqua Lodge, No. 238, F. and A. M. He is survived by a son and a daughter.

Alexander Dunlap
Alexander Dunlap, employed as a motorman on the Woodland avenue division of the Rapid Transit Company for almost twenty years, died of pneumonia yesterday, in his home, 1107 Tyler avenue, Darby. He was in his forty-seventh year, and is survived by his widow, mother, five brothers and two sisters. He was a member of the Stomen's Fellowship and of the Darby Republican Club.

Arthur J. Anderson
Arthur J. Anderson, editor of the Pennsylvania Farmer, a publication of this city, died at his home in Oceana county, Michigan, on Wednesday after an extended illness. Arthur Anderson was born in Michigan and was forty-one years old. He entered the newspaper business in Detroit, where his first work was done on the Detroit Tribune. This paper was sold shortly after his advent into the business, when he identified himself with the Ohio Farmer in the fall of 1911 and continued on that paper until the publishers purchased the Pennsylvania Farmer in 1911, moving it to Philadelphia in 1912.

Mrs. Sarah A. Cooper
Mrs. Sarah A. Cooper, eighty-two years old, died of pneumonia on Wednesday night in her home at Clifton Heights. She was born near Darby and passed almost her entire life in that locality. She is survived by a son, William Cooper, and a daughter, Mrs. Millie Meers, with whom she lived. The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon in the Clifton Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. J. E. Bausman, pastor of the church. Interment will be made in Arlington Cemetery.

Martha Grubb Barnard
Friends here have received word of the death Sunday, November 20, of Martha Grubb Barnard, wife of the Rev. Joseph H. Barnard, of Madison, Ind., and mother of the sculptor, George Gray Barnard. Mrs. Barnard, who was born in this city, was the daughter of the late George Gray Grubb, a well-known iron master, and was a cousin of Dr. Elisha Kent Kane.

Martha McCombs
Martha McCombs, wife of Winfield S. McCombs, died yesterday. She was an active religious worker on Germantown and interested in church and missionary movements. Mrs. McCombs assisted the First Baptist Church, East Erie street, Germantown; the Women's American Baptist Home and Missionary Society of North Philadelphia; the Pastor's Aid Society; the Home and Foreign Missionary Society; the Adult Bible Class of the Market Square Presbyterian Church of Germantown; the Ladies' Auxiliary of Germantown Commandery, No. 82, E. T.; the Helms A. F. M. Memorial Chapter, No. 278, O. E. S.; and the Bradford Mills Emergency League.

VARE FOES TO SEEK COMMITTEE SEATS

Town Meeting Party Plans Fight for Places at Spring Primaries

MAY RAISE CAMPAIGN FUND

Election of fifteen Town Meeting men to the Republican city committee is the object of the drive the Town Meeting party plans to launch against the Vares organization at the spring primaries. A movement to raise $100,000 to finance the campaign may be started. The Independents plan to wage fights for the election of city committee representatives in all of the independent wards and in some of the wards heretofore classed as Organization wards. It is likely that an agreement will be reached with the Republican Alliance by which the two organizations will be prevented from putting rival candidates in the field in the various divisions where the onslaught against the Vares is to be waged. It is said that George W. Coles, chairman of the Town Meeting party, may be a candidate to represent the Eighth ward, Senator Penrose's home ward, in the city committee. E. A. Devlin, leader of the ward, never sits in the city committee, but always sends a representative. Councilman-elect Francis F. Hurch may be urged to become a candidate from the Forty-sixth ward. Harry A. Mackey is now the committeeman from the big independent bailiwick in West Philadelphia.

PUBLIC SERVICE LECTURE

Burdette G. Lewis to Speak on Administration of Institutions

"The Administration of Public Institutions" will be discussed this afternoon by Burdette G. Lewis, commissioner of institutions and agencies of New Jersey, in the Central Branch, Y. M. C. A., 1421 Arch street. The address will be the third of a series concerning public service arranged under the direction of President Judge Brown, of the Municipal Court. It is to be held under the auspices of the educational department of the Municipal Court and the teachers' association, special education section. Among three reels of motion picture films Mr. Lewis will exhibit in depicting the administration of the New Jersey State Reformatory for Women at Clinton.

TO TALK ON FAR EAST

Dr. Raiguel, Back From Tour of Orient, to Lecture on Problems

Conditions in the Far East as observed by Dr. George Earle Raiguel will be discussed by him this afternoon in Witherspoon Hall, where he will lecture under the auspices of the University Extension Society. Doctor Raiguel has just returned from a tour of Japan, Korea and Siberia, where he watched the ushering in of a new era. He talked with leaders of thought in China, both among the foreigners and the natives, and believes there are great possibilities in the student movement there, and that the country is awakening to a new national consciousness. The excesses of Japan in Korea, the attempt at revolution there, and the beginning of the revolutionary movement in Japan will be explained in the lecture.

U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE WOULD HAVE RATS DIEHAPPY

Spread Suggested for the Extinction of Mr. Rodent Fit for a King, if the Desert Is Omitted

Cost of a Mouse Funeral, With Cheese and Steak in Clouds, Great Expense, if Edict Is Obeyed

The nearby menu is not to be served at a Bellevue-Straford banquet tonight. Nor is it the meal of a college professor; he couldn't afford it. It is simply an ordinary spread for a rat. In pointing out methods for the extermination of Mr. Rodent, the United States Public Health Service suggests that the feast in question would prove a good bait—if sprinkled with a little poison, for dessert. "Fresh bait should be used each night," says the circular sent out by the health service. Which means that after arranging this feast tonight you must eat it yourself if the rat don't, and get a fresh lay-out for money tomorrow. The great confidence in this rat elimination remedy is shown by these assuring words in a section under general instructions on the circular: "The morning after baiting look for dead rats and remove them. Take up baits. Examine these as to see which have attracted the most rats." Incidentally, what is the rat trap manufacturers going to say about this. For, it is not clearly explained in the government's circular, but probably it is meant to put the liquid in a champagne glass and let him sip it through

A straw in front of the kitchen range after the family has gone to bed. The tomatoes suggested would probably be served on lettuce leaf to keep the rat from getting his feet dirty as he dined. While it is not specified how the bananas should be served, those who throw this plan should peel them and throw away the skins, so as the mouse won't slip and hurt himself. "Fresh bait should be used each night," says the circular sent out by the health service. Which means that after arranging this feast tonight you must eat it yourself if the rat don't, and get a fresh lay-out for money tomorrow. ### RICH BEGGAR SHOT BY AN OLD ENEMY

Second Cripple, Believing He Killed Man, Surrenders, Telling Tale of Vengeance

INJURED MAN HAS MOTORCAR

Walking into the detective bureau in City Hall last night, a man who said he was William Wallace Irons, son of John Wallace Irons, prominent manufacturer here fifty years ago, told the clerk he had just shot and killed a man. Then he handed the clerk the revolver which he said he had used. "The man, known as William Dugan, said he had shot William Dugan in self-defense in a house on Marshall street. According to his story, both he and Dugan are cripples and make a living by peddling and begging. Dugan is said to have a bank account and owns an automobile. Wallace said he met Dugan years ago in a village near Elizabeth, Pa. They became involved in a drunken brawl and were sent to jail for trial in the Lancaster county courts. There Wallace said he testified against Dugan and was freed, while Dugan was sentenced to a year in prison. Yesterday Dugan called on Wallace and told him for a ride in his automobile. The ride ended at the Marshall street house. There, according to Wallace, Dugan told him he recognized him and was going to kill him in revenge for his testimony of seven years ago. Drawing a pistol Dugan attacked Wallace, according to the latter. Then Wallace grappled with him, grabbed his revolver and while struggling saw Dugan reach for another weapon. He fired two shots, wounding Dugan. The latter was taken to the Hahnemann Hospital, where it is said he will probably die. "I'll fix myself when I get well," said he.

NEW WAY TO FIGHT "REDS"

Carl W. Ackerman Proposes Public Replies to All Radical Statements A fight on bolshevism here along the lines followed in Minneapolis was proposed by Carl W. Ackerman, of the PUBLIC LEDGER, in an address last night at the Coni Club dinner. He said surprise of radical speeches had caused discontent and disapproval and had failed to defeat the "Red" movement. He said a more effective way of fighting radicalism was to permit them to speak with an American committee representative present to reply and demand proof for all assertions made by the radicals.

2D REGIMENT CELEBRATES

Unit Marks Anniversary With Parade and Drill at Armory The Second Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, celebrated its seventy-ninth anniversary last night in the armory, Broad street and Susquehanna avenue. There was a regimental parade and a drill by Mary Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar. The chairman of the committee on arrangements was Colonel A. H. Hartung, retired commander of the Infantry Corps, Old Guard of the Second Regiment.

RENEW FIGHT ON P. R. T.

Business Men Try to Have City Act in Passyunk Ave. Trolley Case

The United Business Men's Association today will try, through City Solicitor Connolly, to obtain an injunction restraining the Rapid Transit Co. from removing its tracks on Passyunk avenue east of Sixteenth street. When the company about a year ago announced its purpose to lift the tracks business men petitioned the Public Service Commission. When the commission ruled the company had the right to move the tracks an appeal was taken to the State Supreme Court, which several days ago sustained the commission. The latest move was made yesterday when Select Councilman Trainer, Third ward, introduced a resolution, passed unanimously, which directed the city solicitor to ask for an injunction against removal of the rails.
